You have given everything to me,
What can I do for You?
You have given me eyes to see,
What can I do for You?

Student Lifep. 34

Pulled me out of bondage and You made me renewed inside, Filled up the hunger that had always been denied,
Opened up a door no man can shut
and You opened it so wide,
And You've chosen me to be among the few.
What can I do for You?

Classes p. 110

You have laid down Your life for me.

What can I do for You?

You have explained every mystery.

What can I do for You?

Soon as a man is born you know the sparks begin to fly.

He gets wise in his own eyes and he's made to believe a lie.

Who would deliver him from the death he's bound to die?

Well, You've done it all and there's no more anyone can pretend to do.

What can I do for You?

You have given all there is to give.

What can I give to You?

You have given me life to live.

How can I live for You?

I know all about poison, I know all about fiery darts.

I don't care how rough the road is, show me where to start.

Whatever pleases You, tell it to my heart.

Well, I don't deserve it, but I sure did make it through.

What can I do for You?

Bob Dylan

*In my beginning is my end. In succession
 Houses rise and fall, crumble, are extended.
 Are removed, destroyed.
 restored, or in their place
 Is an open field, or a factory, or a by-pass.
 Old stone to new building, old timber to new fires.
 Old fires to ashes, and ashes to the earth
 Which is already flesh, fur, and faeces.
 Bone of man and beast,
 cornstalk and leaf.
 Houses live and die:*

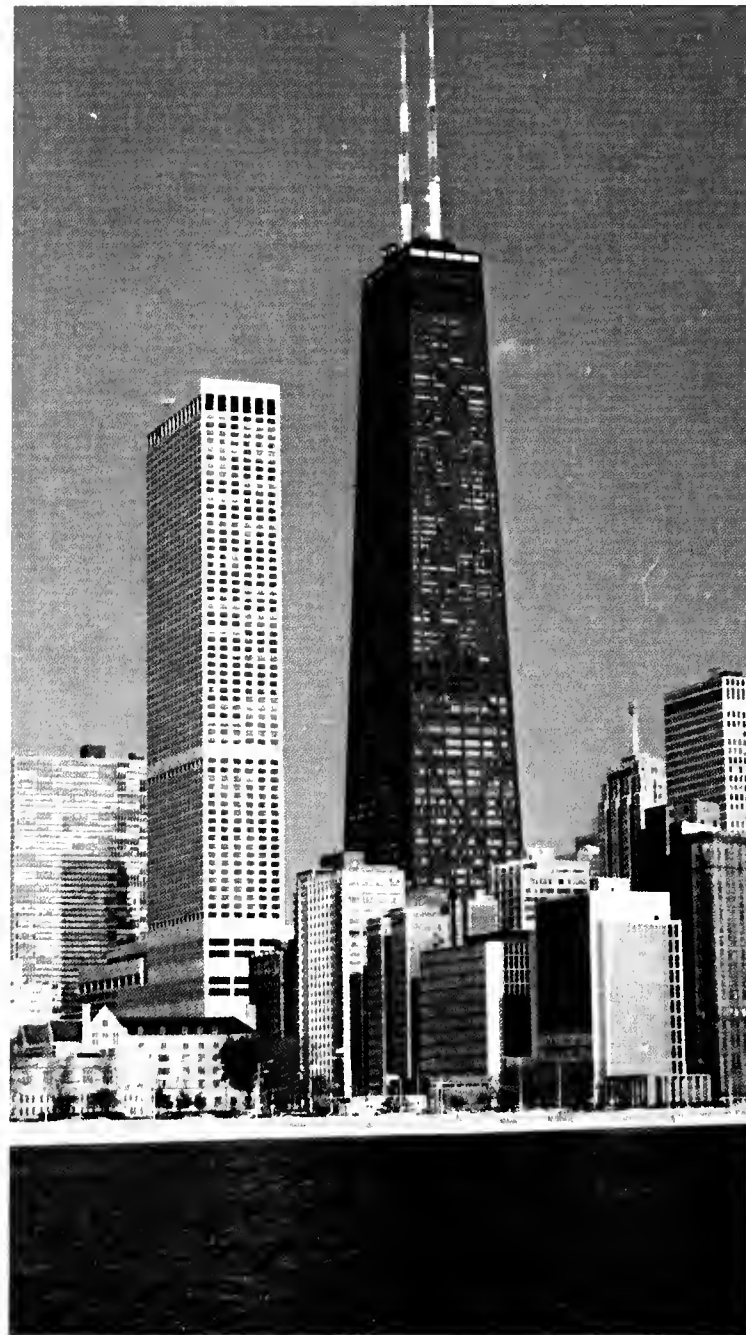

*Keeping time.
 Keeping the rhythm in their dancing
 As in their living in the living seasons*

*The time of the seasons and the constellations
The time of milking and the time of harvest
The time of the coupling of man and woman
And that of beasts. Feet rising and falling Eating and drinking. Dung and death.*

*Dawn points, and another day
Prepares for heat and silence.
Out at sea the dawn wind Wrinkles and slides. I am here Or there, or elsewhere. In my beginning.*

*At best, only a limited value
In the knowledge derived from experience.
The knowledge imposes a pattern,
and falsifies,
For the pattern is new in every moment
And every moment is a new and shocking
Valuation of all we have been.
We are only undeceived
Of that which, deceiving, could no longer harm.*

The only wisdom we can hope to acquire

Is the wisdom of humility: Humility is endless.

The houses are all gone under the sea.

The dancers are all gone under the hill.

And cold the sense and lost the motive of action.

And we all go with them, into the silent funeral.

Nobody's funeral, for there is no one to bury.

The laughter in the garden, echoed ecstasy

Not lost, but requiring, pointing to the agony

Of death and birth.

I said to my soul, be still, and let the dark come upon you Which shall be the darkness of God.

*I said to my soul, be still, and wait without hope For hope would be hope for the wrong thing; wait without love
 For love would be love of the wrong thing; there is yet faith
 But the faith and love and the hope are all in the waiting.
 Wait without thought, for you are not ready for thought:
 So the darkness shall be the night and the stillness the dancing.*

*In order to arrive there.
 To arrive where you are, to get from where you are not.
 You must go by a way
 wherein there is no ecstasy.
 In order to arrive at what you do not know
 You must go by the way which is a way of ignorance.
 In order to possess what you do not possess
 You must go by the way of dispossession.
 In order to arrive at what you are not
 You must go through the way in which you are not.
 And what you do not know is the only thing you know
 And what you own is what you do not own
 And where you are is where you are not.*

*And so each venture
Is a new beginning, a raid on the inarticulate
With shabby equipment always deteriorating
In the general mess of imprecision of feeling.*

*Undisciplined squads of emotion.
And what is there to conquer
By strength and submission, has already been discovered Once or twice, or several times, by men whom one cannot hope To emulate-but there is no competition-
There is only the fight to recover
what has been lost
And found and lost again and again: and now, under conditions
That seem unpropitious, but perhaps neither gain nor loss.
For us, there is only the trying.
The rest is not our business.*

*Home is where one starts from. As we grow older
The world becomes stranger, the pattern more complicated
Of dead and living. Not the intense moment
And not the lifetime of one man only
But of old stones that cannot be deciphered.*

*Love is most nearly itself
When here and now cease to matter.
Old men ought to be explorers
Here and there does not matter
We must be still and still moving Into another intensity
For a further union, a deeper communion
Through the dark cold and the empty desolation,
The wave cry, the wind cry, the vast water
Of the petrel and the porpoise. In my end is my beginning.*

1981 Dedicatee

Mr. Gilbert Mead

Quiet and unassuming, Mr. Gilbert W. Mead has faithfully served the Moody Bible Institute for thirty consecutive years. Turning down a professional career and many promising positions with leading evangelical artists, Mr. Mead has remained at Moody ministering unpretentiously to administration, faculty, students and staff through the gift of music.

An extremely talented musician, Mr. Mead entered the American Conservatory of Music after graduating from M.B.I. (with a major in Bible). After performing his audition for admission, the conservatory allowed him to waive many required classes and recitals, thinking that he had studied much longer than he had. "He's very gifted and always professional," commented one student.

Mr. Mead desires to educate students concerning the vital importance of music in the church as well as one's own life. His warm personality and sharp sense of humor show forth in the classroom. "He can really relate to students well and takes personal interest in them. That's why he's here, really," said one student who is very close to Mr. Mead.

His ministry does not end at the Institute. Over the years he has conducted numerous choirs and played organ in major crusades. His primary hobby is building and repairing pipe organs, a painstaking job requiring hours of patience.

From his Monday morning toccatas and scherzos to his Introduction to Music classes, one can certainly see God's hand upon his ministry and in him perceive a true example of the loyal and faithful servant.

Proverbs 1:4

President of MBI

The real theme of this yearbook is our new life in Christ.

During my student days, I became seriously ill. Our school doctor, Titus Johnson, recommended immediate surgery. Because it appeared to be a malignant tumor, the operation was followed by 30 x-ray treatments. I shall always remember the loving concern of missionary doctor Titus Johnson. Carefully he explained that the condition could be fatal, and if not, the possibilities of fathering children were remote.

The hospital bed at Swedish Covenant Hospital was, in a real sense, my altar. I reminded the Lord of my desire to serve Him alone. I told Him that I wanted His will more than anything in life. I prayed, "Dear Lord, this hospital bed is my altar of sacrifice. I want to be dead to self and alive to God." That decision for me was a new beginning.

It is my prayer that each graduate will experience the new life found alone in Jesus Christ.

George Sweeting

Dean of Education

Dr. Kenneth G. Hanna

Dr. Kenneth G. Hanna comes to Moody this year after seventeen years of faithful service at the Winnipeg Bible College and Theological Seminary. It was during a research sabbatical from administrative duties as President at Winnipeg that both Drs. Sweeting and Martin approached him concerning the appointment as Dean of Education at Moody. Being content at Winnipeg, Dr. Hanna was at first resistant to the idea. "I was not looking for the position at all, wanting rather to return to Winnipeg and resume my presidency. But, after much prayer, I felt a distinct leading from the Lord to come here."

Dr. Hanna and his family are adjusting well to Chicago, though he says he does miss his home which stood on twenty acres of farm land. "I'm a farmer at heart. I enjoyed putting my blue jeans on when I got home and working on the farm. I do miss that."

Assit. Dean of Education

Dr. Jay Fernlund

Dr. Jay Fernlund is a vital part of the administration at Moody, although he is seldom seen by the students. His official title is Assistant Dean of Education. He deals with continuing education as well as filling in for the unoccupied office of evening school director.

Dr. Fernlund is the only returning member of this three-man team. Last year he served as Dean of Faculty, so his job has varied within the last few years in his interchangeable administrative duties. While we are used to hearing his name concerning administration, many are not aware that he now occupies a new position and is serving MBI in a new capacity.

Dean of Faculty

Howard A. Whaley

Mr. Howard A. Whaley also sensed a distinct calling from God in assuming the position of Dean of Faculty. A member of faculty for seventeen and one half years, he is certainly qualified to take the post. His administrative experience from serving on several mission boards and as Chairman of the Missions Department will aid him considerably with his duties.

Mr. Whaley misses the interaction with the students, but that will not stop him from having a strong impact on the student body. He will channel his resources into his new office by seeking teachers with the same type of challenge-oriented approach to learning.

He looks forward to experimenting with the current system of scheduling and eliminating certain obsolescence in particular courses.

Mrs. Ruth Irvine

Mr. Michael Lastoria

Mr. Ralph Bradbury

Robert Irvin, Dean of Students, has said that the Deans Department is designed to meet the non-academic needs of all students. The deans try to build relationships that will lead to a sense of sincere mutual trust and openness.

"I want to challenge people to think," said Ruth Irvine. "to look at the whole scope of a problem and to solve it for themselves." Problems of identity and decisiveness seem to be most common among Moody students. The deans desire to stimulate thought amongst students, constructing self-awareness tools that will be useful throughout life. "Sessions with my dean give me insight that I am producing myself. I am discovering new things . . . by examining myself," one student has said.

Being landlords for 1,350 people is not an easy task. There's more to the job than signing late permits and giving out the coveted Mr. Clean Award. Most responsibilities are carried on behind the scenes. "The most challenging aspect of my job is the nature of being a liaison between the students and the deans," said Tom Edelen, Men's Head Resident.

The staff works primarily with the R.A.'s, trying to develop and encourage them with their work on their respective floors. Tom, Barb, Connie and Nate feel that they must always be conscious of being fair to all students, presenting a balanced image, constructing reciprocal trust and respect and developing meaningful relationships. "My ultimate goal, of course," said Tom, "is to learn how to control a men's dorm meeting."

Student Employment

You come back from a class, enter your dorm lobby and push the elevator button. In front of you a message reads: "3-5 People Needed To Hand Out Leaflets: 1-6 P.M.; $25.00 Per Hour." (Well, maybe it doesn't read exactly that way.) It is signed, however, by Mr. "B" or Mrs. Stump, the two major reasons why Chicago's economy retains its vitality.

Because of the growing inflation rate, the number of students seeking temporary or holding part-time employment has risen from 50% to 70% in just three years. Oddly enough, though the unemployment rate has also been rising, "many businesses are using more part-time employees than ever before," said Mr. Becker. Temporary loans are granted to further ease the financial burden of several students.

Mr. Calvin Becker — Director

Health Service

Nurse Marilyn Morgan and her team of student nurses see "everything from sore throats to torn ligaments" each day. Knowing that many of the illnesses treated are brought on by mental stress, afternoons are spent counseling with some of the students. "We try to help the whole person; this is a ministry," says Nurse Morgan.

Registrar

How many students have blue eyes? What is the maiden name of your roommate's mother? How many students from Omaha, Nebraska, attend M.B.I.? You may never ponder these questions, but if you do there's one place where the answers to these and many other inquiries may be found. Yes, the Registrar's Office possesses a wealth of knowledge designed to "provide fast, accurate service to students, faculty and administration," said Mr. Roy Shervy, Director.

Handling the acceptance of incoming students, Mr. Shervy stated emphatically that "standards are tightening, not being lowered, all the time."

Correspondence School

Celebrating its eightieth anniversary this year, the Correspondence School is a ministry of the educational branch of the Institute which ministers to those who desire a more formal education but are unable to attend classes. Courses are available by mail for college credit or, on a less intense level, without credit.

The school is presently preparing over 118,000 students to better serve our Lord in limitless ministries. One of the most popular studies is the Schofield Bible Course which gives an overview of both testaments and Bible doctrine. Other courses include Bible book studies, Christian faith and practice courses and even courses in the original biblical languages.

Everything from issuing flannel-graphs to mixing sound for a concert to building an impressive video library to filming messages during Founder's Week fall under the responsibilities of the A.V. Center. Bruce Cain and his troupe of electronic whizzes staff one of the largest and best equipped centers in the area, having more material than some major universities. If by chance some piece of equipment should malfunction, the A.V. staff specializes in the repair and operation of all its equipment.

Bruce Cain — Director

Evening School

Designed for the committed layperson, Evening School offers subjects on an adult education level to nearly 2,000 students each year. From the Florida Keys to the Mississippi, the schools assist local pastors in training their members as Sunday School teachers, youth leaders, music directors, club workers and church officers.

One recent graduate has written, "At Evening School I have grown most in my Christian life. I thank God for some of the most dedicated Christian teachers in the world at Moody." Graduate banquets include testimonies of how God has matured them so much in such a limited time. To further this ministry, plans are in the making for a video Bible Institute operating completely on tape to be used by cable networks, Christian stations and churches.

Mrs. Mildred Benson

Library

"I'm very pleased with the way students work here," said Robert Schock, head librarian. "They seem to be serious about their classes and projects." Assisting students with their studies, research and plain curiosity, the library currently possesses 105,000 volumes and subscribes to over 900 periodicals, carrying everything from the Harvard Theological Review to "The Wittenburg Door."

Due to the present overcrowded conditions, the library must expand to the seventh floor. This will allow for the purchasing of needed books, periodicals and new furniture. Mr. Schock, extremely happy about and proud of the expansion, said, "Building a collection that is constantly changing and will have a lasting influence is the most rewarding aspect of my job."

Miss Wilda Byrd

P.C.W. Department

Though working understaffed (Mr. Tahl and Miss Byrd carry a student/staff ratio of 1,350:1), the P.C.W. department is a very close-knit, cohesive group. Originated by D.L. Moody himself, the Institute is one of the few Christian schools that hires a full-time staff to care for this ministry.

Assignments range from teaching Sunday School and C.E.F. classes to performing magic and ventriloquism. The department, in the future, hopes to give academic credit for assignments.

1,000 gallons of milk; 200 loaves of bread; 300 pounds of meat; 800 pounds of tossed salad; 3,000 pieces of fresh fruit — all consumed in one week. "It's very different from where I formerly worked," said Al Terwilleger, commenting on the difference between St. Meinrad's Monastery and Moody. "They were not allowed to talk when they ate; and they listened to spiritual readings instead of B.J. Thomas."

This year John Ringer joined the small staff that does everything from soup to nuts: managing the dining room; Coffee Coves I and II (a new one opened in the Norton Building this year); and catering dozens of luncheons and dinners.

Albert Classen

A lot of what I do centers around the family. I was raised in Kansas during the dustbowl days of the Great Depression. Those years taught me many stern lessons of life. Food on the table, though very simple, was something for which to give thanks; not just to say "grace." Health and strength were more important than wall to wall carpeting or a highly respected label inside the lapel of one's suit. The knowledge of God, a copy of His word and a reverence of Him who created and provided all were the central treasures of our home.

I met my wife at Biola and we started a family of our own on the mission field. In three missionary terms we brought home three sons. Ev and I are now grandparents, twice in fact, and love to watch the little ones grow. Our second son is getting married this spring to a lovely girl; our youngest son is planning a career teaching in seminary. So, we have our hands full, but we love it. No father or mother whose sons are men of God know how to express their pride and joy or to appropriately thank the Lord.

Teachers Speak Out

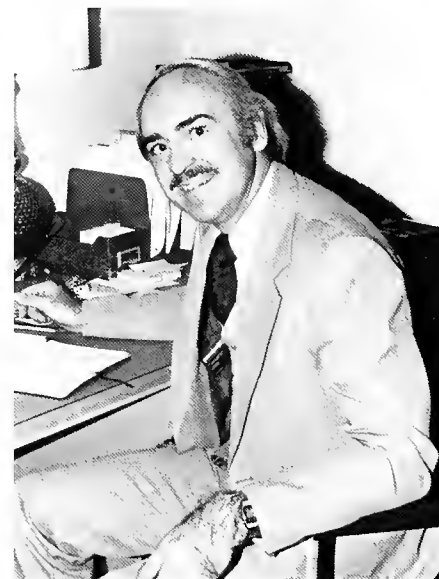

Charles Christensen

It's a crisp October day with golden leaves framed by a blue sky. I'm standing on a ladder, paint brush in hand, to preserve and beautify our home.

On Christmas Eve morning, Winnie and I invite friends in for a holiday breakfast. The pressure is off and the fellowship is warm around cranberry juice, Swedish Julbrod and scrambled eggs.

Late spring is the time to visit Canadian lakes. Though trips come only once-in-a-while, there's no doubt that a "shore lunch" of freshly filleted walleye rejuvenates any tired professor.

Hot summer days mean camp for boys and girls. Baseball, swimming, campfires and popsicles make the Gospel more palatable. Bowed heads and teary eyes mean changed lives.

Sam Canine

Every week I am involved as a part-time staff member of Calvary Baptist Church, Highland, Indiana. This usually fills eight to ten hours per week. In the course of a year I preach, lead choir and congregation (in the absence of the Pastor or Music Director), counsel, teach a basic Christianity class, provide special music, participate in weekly visitation and teach a couples' class each Sunday morning.

Every fall and spring I teach two hours at the Moody Evening School located in Highland. For the last three semesters I have scheduled one week with other churches in either evangelistic seminars designed to train laymen in articulating the gospel or spiritual life conferences.

This past summer I logged about one hundred hours of research toward the completion of my dissertation for the Ph.D. degree in Speech-Communication. Recently, I contributed a chapter to a book scheduled for publication sometime in 1981. Summertime also provides more opportunity for such family activities as biking, swimming, reading and RELAXING.

Tim Ostrander describes the many ministries of Moody Alumni.

Chapel Time

It has been said that 80% to 90% of everything we do each day is out of habit. All of us go our own ways through the day according to set schedules. But at ten o'clock every week day we all participate in an habitual event that is beneficial in breaking up the rest of the day. Of course, this event is called Chapel.

Dr. Sweeting opens our eyes and hearts on those gloomy Monday mornings with his enthusiastic expositions from the Word. Such groups as the Missions Department, classes, P.C.W., Student Missionary Union, Deans Department, the Music Department and STUCO all have responsibilities for the remaining four days of the week.

The function of chapel is to edify and challenge us with new ideas concerning diverse aspects of our faith. Faculty recitals, scenes from student life, comedic speakers (who could forget that master of mirth, Mr. Robert Irvin?), presentations from the many ministries of the institute and messages from those burdened with the concerns of all the students were methods used to reach us. Within the common occurrences of day to day living one thing stands out as a completely unique experience: Chapel.

To a world on the Brink

1) Al Platt's favorite pastime: talking with students
2) A missionary discusses the intricacies of Iran. 3) An African group performs their native music during an evening session.

"To A World On The Brink" was this year's theme for Moody's Annual Missions Conference. This week long event allows eighty-five missionaries from thirty-nine mission boards to come and share first-hand experience with the students.

Themes for the conference circulate in three year patterns: church, discipleship and world. This year's emphasis on world brought Dr. Albert T. Platt, President of Central American Missions International, as key note speaker. With his down to earth manner and quick sense of humor his messages left lasting impressions on everyone. Between Dr. Platt's talks, sessions and seminars were held throughout the day. Topics from Ethnomusicology to Use of Music and Puppets in Jewish Evangelism were all covered during the conference.

With most students coming from middle class American backgrounds, the week serves as a catalyst for developing a world consciousness and perspective. While the students are able to transfer information during the sessions, the missionaries can tap potential resources for the ministry. Mr. Tallman claims that one of the most rewarding aspects of missions conference is receiving letters throughout the following year from those attending the conference who say that the student body as a whole has a very warm response and dedication to missions. "It's an exciting and beneficial time for both the students and the missionaries," Mr. Tallman said with a wide smile.

The call to revival was sounded during Spiritual Emphasis Week

Revival was the cry to greet weary students during Spiritual Emphasis Week. The meetings made an impact on many people as Rev. Lutzer, the special speaker, challenged students and faculty to live truly victorious Christian lives.

Rev. Erwin W. Lutzer, a much respected and admired man at MBI, was formerly Associate Professor of Bible and Theology at the Institute and is now serving as Senior Pastor of Moody Church. Lutzer defined revival as, "God pointing His finger at us" and "Our experience catching up with our theology." He said we have to first realize our sinfulness, confess that sin and then renounce it, claiming God's power to enable us to flee from sin.

Rev. Lutzer did not confine himself to the main speaking sessions, but offered his services as a counselor for anyone needing an open ear. He counselled students in groups and then led them in personal prayer.

The week was characterized by the Holy Spirit's work of conviction, the sinner's response and the ultimate development of disciplined lifestyles to avoid future occurrences of the same sin. The only thing lacking in this revival was the tent.

Rev. Lutzer wants to make sure it sunk in.

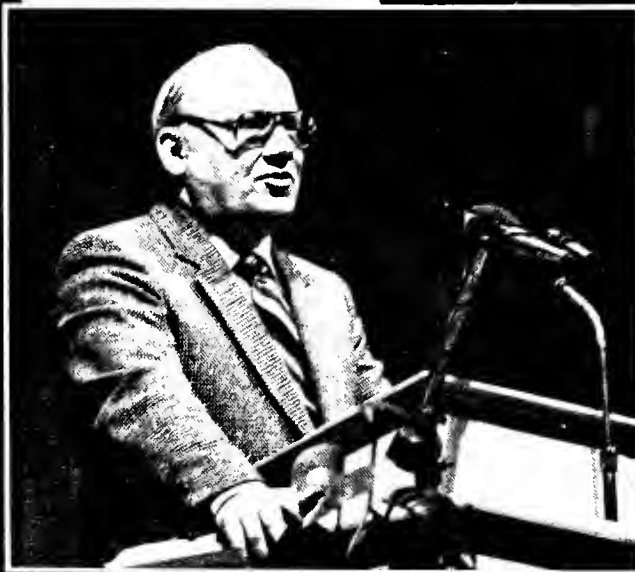

Evangelism came alive for many through Pastor Cocouris's messages.

New Disciples tour British Isles

The New Disciples, a seven member music evangelistic team led by faculty member Dave Brackley, had the privilege of traveling to Scotland, Ireland and the British Isles for a two week tour last spring. While ministering with Dr. Sweeting the group was able to share the gospel in song with many unsaved Europeans.

Mr. Brackley and company were also able to minister here in the states during an eight week summer tour. Engagements for the year included summer camps, youth banquets and conferences. Their talent was best appreciated by the student body when they served as spiritual forerunners for speakers during Chapels and special activities. Their unique style blends sincere enthusiasm with an effective message of God's love.

New Disciple Nancy Swedine commented, "By being in the group, I've learned that in order to be an effective witness through music, I must be willing to surrender my life to God because many of our songs speak of surrender and submission to God's will." Attitudes like these have made the Disciples' ministry penetrating and convicting, allowing God to gain the glory.

Senior Ensemble

Under the direction of Mark Stradiot, the sixteen voice Senior Ensemble was able to minister in a variety of ways during this past year. Singing at many Senior functions, such as socials, Senior Retreat and Chapel, the group gained practical experience in doing the Lord's work and valuable insight in establishing a church choir or choral group

By using a variety of songs and instruments the group was able to expand their musical outreach. Along with piano accompaniment by Cheryl Holder, the String Ensemble and members of the Moody Concert Band were used to give the ensemble an added amount of effectiveness and a better sound.

Although each individual's schedule was packed with other responsibilities, weekly practices paid off, giving the sixteen voice group an exceptional ministry to their classmates as well as the entire student body. The continual effort was well worth the outcome.

The Concert Band Provides Instrumental Music

"Let everything that hath breath praise the Lord." This is the theme verse for the Moody Concert Band, conducted by Mr. Henry Hecht. These fifty-two individuals feel that praising the Lord should be evident in all that they do. It was on this basis that each musical piece was chosen for performance.

This spring the musicians travelled through Arkansas, Indiana, Kansas, Mississippi, Oklahoma and Texas during their two week tour. Not only were they involved in church musical ministries, but were also active in evangelical endeavors, involving them with youth of all ages. Many bands members used not only their musical instruments to tell people about God's love, but they also utilized visual aids to spread the gospel message on beaches and in parks.

Also included in their schedule was a band prayer meeting held twice a week outside regular rehearsals. Mr. Hecht commented, "Working with people who are really dedicated to the Lord creates a special communication. Seeking to know and glorify God through music is a common goal shared by each of us."

Chorale combines male and female voices

1) We ain't singin' THAT song again, are we? 2)
"Doe, a deer . . ."

The Moody Chorale . . . a mixture of male and female, classical and gospel, hard work and fun. How do all these elements fit together to form a unified avenue ministry? The answer is simple, persistence.

Excellence is the watchword that motivates this group of singers. "Arresting fifty-three minds to coordinate all of the basic functions of the choral sound makes Chorale one of the most unique ministries in which I have ever participated. The thrill of it all is when God works through the entire process to accomplish His eternal goals," said Mr. Gerald Edmonds, director of the group.

But don't misunderstand. They have plenty of fun whether it be co-ed football at the fall social, group olympics led by Chorale president Bruce Benson, or a competitive game of Rook on the bus. But throughout the tours and the campus and local concerts, the Moody Chorale is striving to "Sing Unto God."

Men's Glee Communicates Through Song

"Rejoice, the Lord is King!" This triumphant exclamation is the first phrase heard at every M.M.G.C. concert. Conductor Robert Iler has continued to use this traditional hymn to set the stage for a concert filled with praise for Jesus Christ. The format of each concert was geared to relate to every age group — ranging from senior citizens to children — who were actively involved in a musical pantomime of the "David and Goliath" story. Their ministry also included engagements here at M.B.I.: Spiritual Emphasis Week, the "Messiah," socials, Candelight Carols, Founder's Week and Commencement. The group also had many local performances at area churches throughout the school year.

"M.M.G.C. is a terrific training experience for all types of ministry," said Mr. Iler. "Besides all the fun and good times shared, the spiritual blessings that come from ministering to others and from fellowshiping in Christian homes are the most lasting and meaningful." Their theme, "Building Relationships" was truly evidenced all year in the group that proclaims, "We are men with a song."

Women's Glee Performs With Harmony

The Moody Women's Glee Club and Handbell Choir celebrated its twenty-fifth anniversary this fall, and with that celebration came the realization that God blesses those who truly serve Him.

Under the direction of the group's initiator, Mr. Carbaugh, the fifty-five women ministered to many people this past year as they toured to Ohio, Illinois, and Indiana in January. During the Spring Tour, the Glee Club travelled to New England and Canada heralding the good news of God's love through song and music.

The theme for this year was "New Dimensions" which stressed the things above. This idea was not only shared through the women's singing voices and handbells, but also by the use of many different musical instruments such as violins, clarinets, guitars, a flute, and also an electric organ.

Happy twenty-fifth birthday, MWGC. May your next two and one-half decades be as fruitful as the first!

Just Plane

Folks!

What is Moody Aviation?

Good question! We'll let you take a stab at that after reading this sketch.

We have a three year program starting out with mechanics training the first year leading to the FAA mechanics certificate. This enables us to work in the shop for the next two years, inspecting and repairing the same aircraft we fly.

The second year begins with primary flight training which leads to our private pilot's certificate. During this time we have ground-school, shop work, and about 150 hours of flight time.

The third year involves training leading to the commercial pilot certificate. After this is obtained, it is time for the highlight of our training — the advanced cross country. On this two week excursion the class divides into two groups; one group following a northern route to the west coast, and the other, a southern route down into Mexico. The two groups meet in California where they exchange airplanes, routes, and in some cases even instructors.

The year finishes with tactical training, which involves many skills a successful mission pilot must acquire.

There is more involved in our training than just technical things.

We are learning how to work together, how to handle pressures, and how to encourage one another. We are learning more and more the joys of depending on the Lord for all of our needs—financial, spiritual, and academic.

Outside of school we have many opportunities to work in churches in the local community, learning to take positions of leadership. We are finding that our own personal relationship with Christ is something we must cultivate on our own, not depend on others to spoon feed us.

The Lord is using Moody Aviation to train us for that often difficult service of mission support work. The key lies in a servant-like attitude.

Epic Club

Though not widely known on campus, the EPIC CLUB continues to interest students in the field of communications. Concentrating on hands-on experience and evaluation of the media, the spectrum covers everything from film to radio production.

As a result of a survey among the group, EPIC has focused on the area of film this year. Various Christian films were shown and then evaluated in order to show exactly what makes a good film. Knowing that in our society, the members of this group endeavor to learn and later put into practice the idea of using media to Christianity's advantage. While many Christian organizations are already involved in film and television, the area is wide open to new imaginative and creative thinking. The EPIC people hope to capitalize on this open field.

Each year the club also sponsors a play in the fall semester. This year there were two plays: "A Cloud of Witnesses" and Chekhov's humorous one-act "Oh, You Brute," which were both popular.

Under the leadership of Dr. Thelma Hamilton, the EPIC officers (Jeff Jacobsen, Pete Thiessen and Kriste Snodgrass) strove to broaden the horizons for those who might not otherwise be able to observe the endless possibilities of media. With EPIC standing for, "Every Person In Communications," their goal has been to involve all those interested in the communications field in some type of practical outworking of that interest. They seem to have achieved their goal.

Pulpit Club

Equipping To Preach

The next Charles Spurgeon or George Whitefield may be a graduate of the Moody Bible Institute. Though it is entirely possible, we have no way of knowing that. What we do know is that there are over fifty individuals here right now not yearning to be Spurgeons or Whitefields, but simply desiring to pastor wherever they are led.

Since most of these future expositors of the Word have not been exposed to a great deal of pastoral work in their lives, the Pulpit Club was formed to broaden the perspectives already received through pastoral courses. Dr. Donald Smith, Chairman of the Department of Evangelism and Pastoral Training and director of the group, coordinates the meetings held every other Friday night. The sessions include lectures, sermons given by members of the group, and guest speakers from local pastoral staffs. This supplement to the prescribed pastoral courses greatly aids in the development of viewing the pastorate in practical, everyday, nitty-gritty terms.

Missions Becomes Alive Through The Work Of Missionary Union

Missionary Union's purpose is to glorify God by imparting to the campus community a world vision, a global perspective of man as viewed through God's eyes. The "ends of the earth" is the ultimatum, but without solid spiritual construction in Jerusalem the expansion of God's kingdom will be minimal at best.

M.U. stimulates visionary growth through a chapel program featuring prominent missions' leaders and motivated students, prayer focus activities encouraging world intercession, a stewardship project supporting the Lord's work in various parts of the world and a Friday Night Challenge program allowing for exposure to numerous ministries.

The fall project, which provided Bible study book sets printed in Mandarin, is enabling Chinese house pastors to better care for their congregations. These materials are difficult to obtain and therefore are a wonderful asset to the church in mainland China. The book sets include Bible dictionaries, devotional guides, several commentaries, a Bible and a small systematic theology.

The spring semester had as its stewardship focus a partnership with Wycliffe Bible Translators. Student prayers and dollars supported translation work through the purchase of a micro-computer system, enabling Wycliffe workers to speed up the translation process in the Solomon Islands. The Word of God secure in people's hearts is paramount. Bible translation plays an essential, vital role in this accomplishment.

Prayer focus; an extension of MU

"Our primary goal is to effectively intercede for the world, but even more so to change the heart and attitude of the student," said Cliff Gardner, coordinator of the Prayer Foci. Cliff noted that any advancement in the field is through prayer, not necessarily through monetary endorsements. "It's a spiritual battle and our greatest weapon is definitely prayer," he said.

Nine separate foci meet once a week. The sessions try to be as informative concerning the area being prayed for as possible. Maps, newspapers, slides and especially information received from mission boards providing the very latest political, economic, social and spiritual needs of specific countries all are used to help the student pray more intelligently about these places. Also a weekly prayer calendar based on the book OPERATION WORLD is used to carry on the praying between foci. Though the turn out for the foci has been much better this year, Cliff said he's not concerned with numbers, but rather the cultivation of faithful prayer warriors. He quoted E. M. Bounds: "The life of one that communes with God is the life that moves the world."

Jude 3 ministers to cults

"... Appealing that you contend earnestly for the faith which was once for all delivered to the saints," is the admonition from the writer. Jude 3 is a group designed to witness specifically to cults and to the occult.

"Chicago has every group you could imagine," said Brian Kumkoski, leader of the seven member group. Witnessing to over fifteen organizations including the Unification Church, Jehovah's Witnesses, TM, Science of Mind, the I AM, Mormons, Christian Scientists and even Tibetan Buddhists, the group spends numerous hours in preparation and eventually goes out once a week in pairs. This year Jude 3 was able to conduct seminars once a month, concentrating on major targets. "We want the students to get more involved ... with this greatly neglected field," said Brian, concerning the function of the seminars. Having only one known convert in three years, the group's goal is not in numbers, but in preaching and defending the truth to those who have been so drastically led away from it.

Friday Night Challenge broadens the concept of missions

It's a good time to have a meeting—just after one eats dinner or just before one goes out with the girl/guy of one's dreams to a night of pizza and lake shore strolling. Thus, Friday Night Challenge ministers to the student body during a very comfortable, easy-going time when one can relax and enjoyably comprehend what's being presented. "We seek to provide pertinent information concerning world mission endeavors (and the people that are the targets of those endeavors) in a way that is relative to the lives of all students," commented Wes Freiberg, Vice-President of M.U. and Director of Friday Night Challenge.

The theme for this year was "Reach the Unreached." Speakers (Ron Sider, Keith Phillips, Dick Corley, David Hasselgrave and Elizabeth Elliott), films ("Forgotten City," "When Hell Freezes Over" and "Heavenly Deception") and singing groups ("Bondservant") all aided in giving students an open-eyed perspective on the inner city, Muslims, the Chinese, cults and the Hindus.

Wes said that being an M.K. helped him in planning for the meetings. He hopes that through the Challenges the students were not afraid of being grabbed in by an inconspicuous missionary lurking around the corner, but that everyone's world view was expanded and walk with God deepened because of a further knowledge of missions and God's workings in the world.

Tutoring

Sharing what you've learned

What else happens at the Montgomery Ward's cafeteria besides eating meat loaf and seafood platters? There's only one answer: it is the location for the Montgomery Ward's Tutoring Program.

Volunteers from Ward's, M.B.I. and Quaker Oats work on a one to one basis with kids mainly from the Cabrini-Green housing project. Danny Wall, former M.B.I. student and current secretary of the tutoring program, states that the tutors concentrate primarily on developing students' self-concepts, not on actual intellectual problems. With most of the kids coming from single parent homes, Danny states that this is vitally important. "Secondly, we try to make learning and reading fun," he says, using puzzles and drawings on the worksheets to allow the student to eventually motivate himself.

With the selfless efforts of 150 volunteers (sixty-five of those being Moody students), some kids are receiving the long desired attention and instruction that has been lacking too long.

Students reach out to the city

You are walking along Rush Street on Saturday night. You see a small group gathered on the corner. Did someone have a heart attack? Are they giving away free samples of some new detergent? Could it be that ALL those people are waiting for a bus? No, none of the above. Actually, the Gospel is being preached. On any Friday or Saturday night eight teams of ten to fifteen people can be seen on the busiest corners of the city.

Using sketch boards, gospel magic and/or personal testimonies, the Student Outreach crew hit the streets witnessing and hopefully planting seeds in stony hearts. Chris Gouzoules, Director of Student Outreach, stated the three purposes of the group: 1) win souls to Christ, 2) develop tools of evangelism in students, and 3) strongly contribute to the revival spirit of the school.

Started officially three years ago under alumnist Ed Lowe, Student Outreach averages 300 decisions a semester. Chris is quick to add though that personal contact and concern, not numbers, are the true thrusts of the outreach. The group tries to follow D.L. Moody's practice of shoe leather evangelism; getting the word directly to the people on the streets.

The Black Students Fellowship in its third year of existence

The Black Students' Fellowship is more than a club. It's a gathering of believers who share the same rich culture and enjoy unique fellowship.

In the Fall of 1978, black students saw a need to preserve their ethos while studying at Moody. This group also wanted to communicate its input directly to the long neglected surrounding black environment. This form of sharing has involved chapels, seminars and library displays. Feedback from these projects has been tremendous and encouraging.

Future ventures include a more effective ministry in the black community through preaching in churches, evangelism and retreats. This involvement will serve as a bridge between M.B.I. and Chicago's black community.

Seeking identity in a school that is culturally imbalanced is difficult, but B.S.F. provides a way of restoring and preserving the heritage that is often lost in the normal, everyday campus lifestyle.

Moody Student works to give the news to students

CHICAGO (AP) — Important changes have been taking place this year in the MOODY STUDENT. Under the leadership of editor-in-chief Rosemary Rausch, the staff has worked hard to put together a newspaper that both represents and catches student attention.

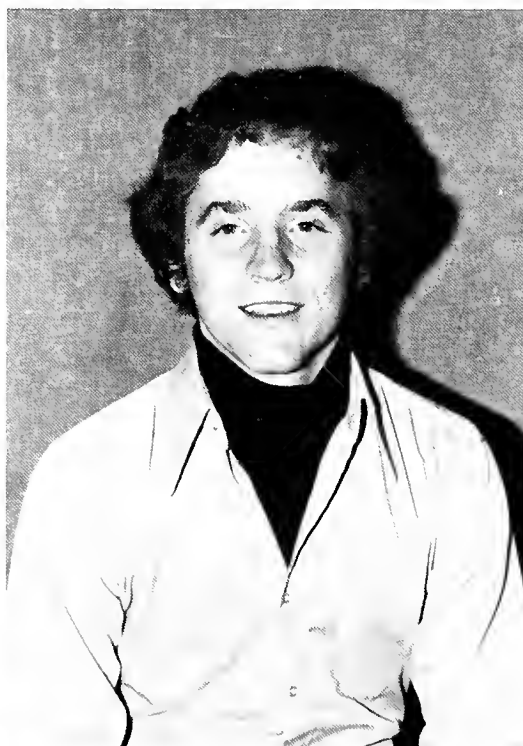

Combining local and international news, the MOODY STUDENT seeks to keep students informed concerning events on campus as well as in the nation and around the world. The editorial page give students an opportunity to express their thoughts and encourage one another. Feature articles highlight some of the people and events that make things happen here at M.B.I.

In addition to superior content, improvements have been made in the area of layout and design, making for easier reading. Also, many editions were expanded from the usual four pages.

The result has been a quality newspaper with timely, informative articles and an appealing format. As students have expressed, the MOODY STUDENT seems to be coming of age.

The Arch Staff makes their mark

To many, the yearbook may seem like just another job. To those on the staff it means more than that. They don't keep regular hours, which makes for odd hours such as working till 4:00 in the morning. One vital qualification for each staff member is dedication.

The Arch is a creation of a small number of students. The staff's job is to effectively capture a year packed full of memories. The trick is to do it in a way that every student will be able to have a memory in print. The yearbook is for the student body. The staff's job is to please you, the student.

Editor Ross Meads is new to his job. He plans to take the job next year after gaining good editorial experience this year.

Team gets a kick out of soccer season!

Moody had a good 1980 soccer season. Eight players returned from last year's team and a wealth of new talent was added by new freshmen and some upperclassmen. Coach Joe Harding and assistant coach Randy Stewart molded the team and helped individuals play as a unit.

The season started great as Moody built an impressive 4-0 record. Some losses followed but in only one game was Moody soundly beaten. There was a certain disappointment when the team was not allowed to go to the NCCAA playoffs, but it did not remain long. An aura of unity pervaded the entire team and van rides to games were a time of fellowship. The team also was granted the opportunity to show their testimony to the unsaved when they played Stateville prison.

Moody soccer gave each person an opportunity to enjoy the sport, but it was also a time of enrichment for each one who had a part in the team. Special recognition was given to Randy Stewart — honorary captain, Steve Paul — most inspirational, and Mike Patterson — most improved.

With only one returning varsity player, student coach Dan T. Snyder set out to develop the twelve "potential-packed" players. Although no major injuries occurred during games, there were plenty of sore muscles from practices as the team had to be conditioned and taught to master volleyball skills.

Winning the Judson home game after a discouraging eight losses gave the Archerettes a needed push and its momentum took them through five consecutive victories. Losing the last game to Grand Rapids was heartbreaking to some but all knew it had been a worthwhile season. The team wanted to see God working in and through them, individually and as a team. God did that and showed what the team could do in Him.

The Men's Basketball team, a fourteen member group comprised of students representing each class, saw itself grow into a fine team this past season. Coached by A.S.P. student Larry Jones, who has his degree in Physical Education, and advised by faculty member Joe Harding, the team finished a fine season and was chosen to play in the NCCAA Regional Competition in February.

Mr. Harding comments on this year's team. "The guys learned to pray for each other on and off the court. I have received many comments from visiting coaches whose team members have remarked on the fantastic spirit of fellowship they felt with the Moody team."

The men practiced on an average of twice a week, a relatively short amount, due to PCW's and other conflicts. However, due to real dedication to each other and an honest effort to improve, the team slowly saw itself grow into a strong, skillful unit.

"Our purpose is to grow spiritually through athletics. Winning and losing is not a factor when you're doing your best for Christ. Winning is great, but there are times when we need to lose in order to grow," states Mr. Harding. It is evident that the Men's basketball team has shown that no matter what the scores are, a winning season is still attainable.

This year the women's basketball team experienced a season of establishment and growth. Because the team was quite young, the win/loss factor was not a measure of determining its success, but the emphasis was placed on building the team. The ladies faced some tough competition this year and realized that much work would have to be done in order to adequately compete and win.

The nine member team was coached by Paul DeYoung, an A.S.P. student who graduated from Trinity College with a degree in Physical Education, and was advised by Miss Nadine Brood, who is currently the women's Physical Education instructor. Miss Brood comments on the growth she's seen the team experience this year. "Each athlete on the team was immediately faced with two struggles - establishing time priorities and meeting personal goals. It's been such a thrill for me to see the improvement within the team when each player concentrates during practice time, and when she follows through on a commitment." Miss Brood hopes to see more interest in the basketball program next year, and is also looking forward to additional facilities being added so that each athletic team can be adequately accommodated.

Wrestlers Grapple for Victory

Many people have the misconception that a team of wrestlers is made up of belligerent brutes who use no skill in competition. But in actuality this idea couldn't be farther from the truth. Many holds and counter-attacks must be learned and practiced, and the wrestler must be able to think quickly and have foresight in order to succeed. He must also be willing to spend time in weight training and in building endurance for the six to eight minute matches.

This year's team was advised by faculty member, Mr. Joe Greenebaum. Veteran wrestler Kurt Wilkinson arranged practices and instructor Mr. Joe Harding assisted in coaching. The eight matmen had a fine season with a record of four wins and four losses in dual meets, losing their last match by a mere 2 points. In the two tournaments they participated in, the men finished sixth at Calvin College and third, out of eight schools present, at the Maranatha Baptist Bible College tourney in Wisconsin.

Three of the team members had winning seasons. Tim McClure collected 15 wins and only 1 loss and both Jeff Bilhorn and Kurt Wilkinson shared the honor of holding a 14-2 record.

With a good year under their belts, the Moody team looks forward to another good season next year. So support them and be involved with winners.

Intramurals

Give Students

A Chance

To Blow Off

Steam

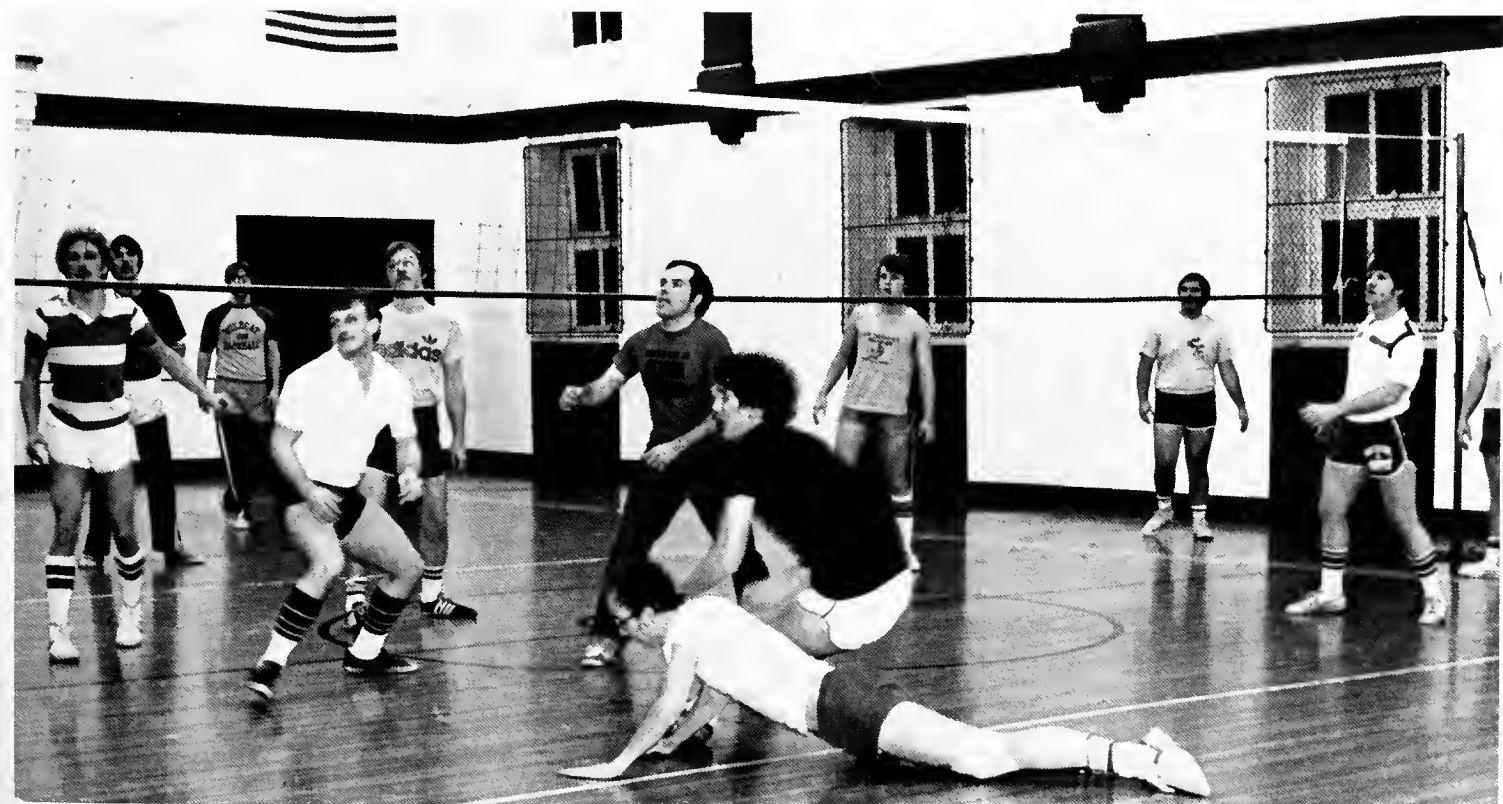

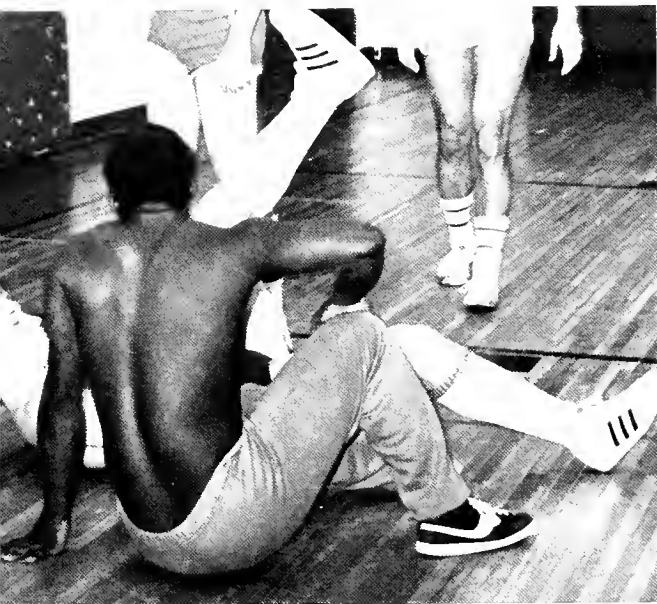

Intramural sports are a popular pastime here at Moody, involving all students who are interested in athletic competition. Sports range from volleyball to floor hockey to checkers, and are an important aspect of Moody life.

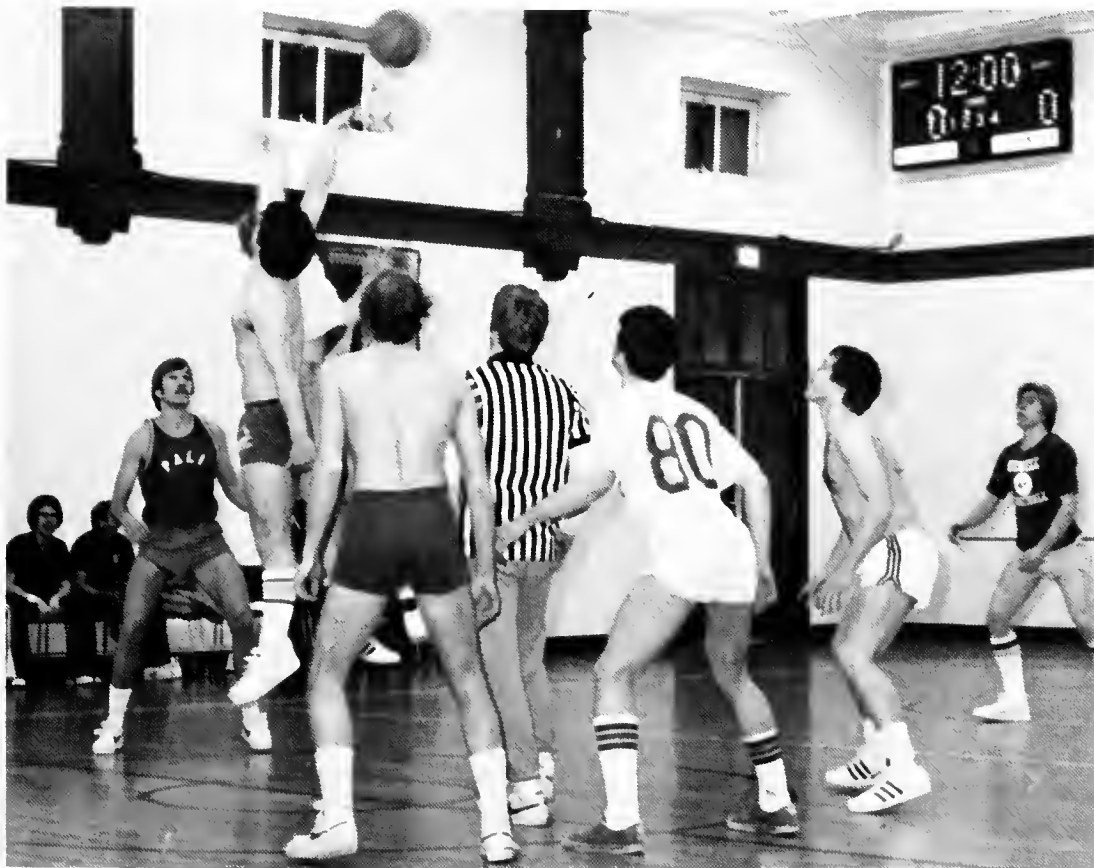

This sports program, headed by senior Lenny Marsch, offers competition among the various floors and also with the A.S.P. and married students. Active intramural participant, Manny Rocha sees the benefits in this way, "Intramurals offer fellowship with others through athletic competition. They build floor unity and also help to release a little steam caused by academic pressures."

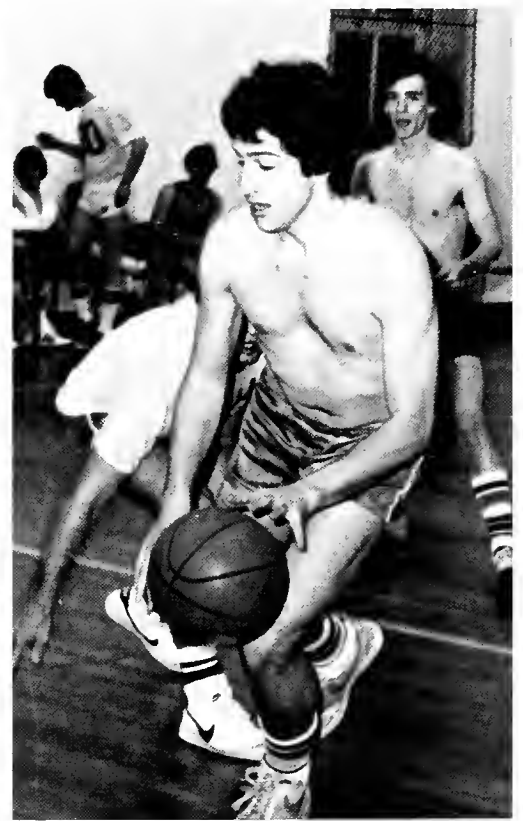

Points are awarded to all participants. These go toward their floor tally and extra points are given to each game - winning team. All points are totalled to reveal the champion floor. A picture and the names of these athletes appear each year on a plaque which is placed on Culbertson Hall's second floor.

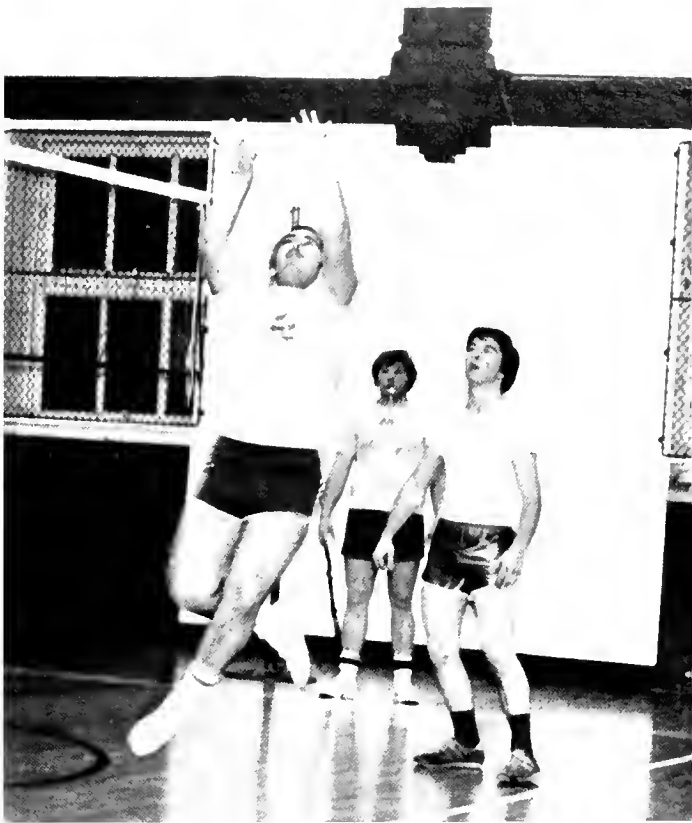

Participation is encouraged by those who have "experienced" intramural sports. The games help to strengthen and test spiritual truths as well as provide good exercise. So, if you're interested in fun and fellowship - go intramurals!

Living It Up At MBI

Classes

The right, practical divinity is this: Believe in Christ, and do your duty in that state of life to which God has called you.

Martin Luther

"We are Fearfully and Wonderfully Made," was the theme for this year's fall Senior Retreat. Behind this quote is the philosophy that in order to effectively encourage others, one must have a self-concept that is glorifying to God.

Bill Turner, Senior Class President, views this role of encouragement as one of the primary functions of each Senior Class member. Not only were the seniors an encouragement to one another, but also to the underclassmen.

Along with retreats, socials and prayer breakfasts, the Class of '81 found that its biggest responsibility was the planning for graduation involving many, many details.

"I think that attending Moody Bible Institute has been one of the greatest experiences of my life. Not only have I gained head knowledge, but more importantly, Jesus Christ has become my Rock," stated Bill. Hopefully, each Senior Class member can say the same after walking through the arch for the last time as a student here at M.B.I.

Front row, left to right: Ranita Korpak, rec. secretary; Gretchen Becker, treasurer; Lynne Turner, cor. secretary Back row: Bill Turner, president; Jim Hanna, chaplain; Charles Butler, vice president.

Seniors retreat to Green Lake

"Well, the way I see the hypostatic union . . ."

Told ya being a senior is great!

Why can't our campus be like this?

Chow Down Time!

It's supposed to be on the plate. Manny.

Seniors: "models" of respectability.

The comment most seniors would make concerning the senior retreat is "Don't miss it." It is a relaxing break from the pressures of studies and a time when seniors develop a closer bond.

Bill Muir, from Campus Life, gave some good insights on the topic of self-esteem. Special music was provided by the senior ensemble as well as other soloists from the senior class.

The camp provided several activities to participate in. One of the more popular was the bicycle built for two which Rich Geigert took most of the girls for a ride on.

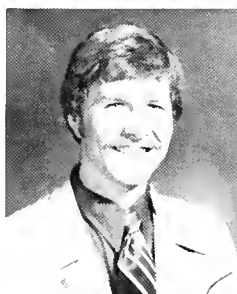

One of the highlights of the retreat was the campfire which ended in a downpour. Few took advantage of the "no curfew rules" that night.

The Senior Retreat Committee was headed up by Steve Clymer and they did a fantastic job in making it a memorable time for all.

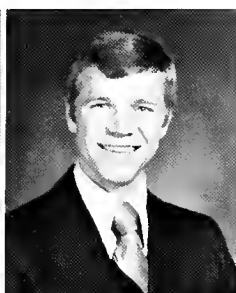

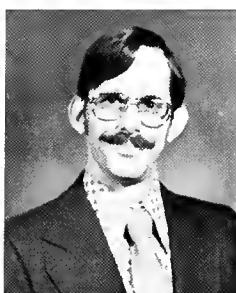

Our aviation training in Elizabethton begins with an aviation mechanics course. We are introduced to the skills required for maintaining and repairing a wide variety of aircraft. At the end of the year each of us will hold two FAA licenses permitting us to work as aviation mechanics.

Junior Class Officers

Taking the leap from P.M.T. to Systematic Theology is not an easy move, but every Junior must do so. The middle year at any school is always difficult; knowing the ropes (What the Freshmen must STILL obtain), yet not on top (what the Seniors have ALREADY obtained).

Losing their class president was no way to start the year, either. Clint Ayers was elected the new class president in September. He and the executive committee built-up the class spirit by initiating small groups that met together periodically to pray, share burdens and encourage one another. Socials were aimed at strengthening the unity of the class. To get a number of people involved, each event was planned by different people within the Class of '82. "I feel that we are much stronger and more united this year . . . we've come a long way," commented one enthusiastic Junior.

Welcoming

Though their parents said they would get homesick and their pastors said the academics would be excruciating and their friends said they would never see them again, they came, anyway. Second City welcomed them with open, hazy arms in the pleasant August humidity . . .

They paid their freshmen dues by sleeping through countless assemblies and slouching in mile-long lines. Bill Turner and his band of merry troubadours, costumed inconspicuously in fluorescent orange T-shirts, made sure everything ran smoothly.

The week was highlighted by the climactic Freshmen Outing and introductions to the city they would be spending their next three years in. When the dust settled, though, they were rested and ready to begin classes.

Six By Four, Nail 'Em To the Floor!

Get Small Volleyball — a traditional highlight.

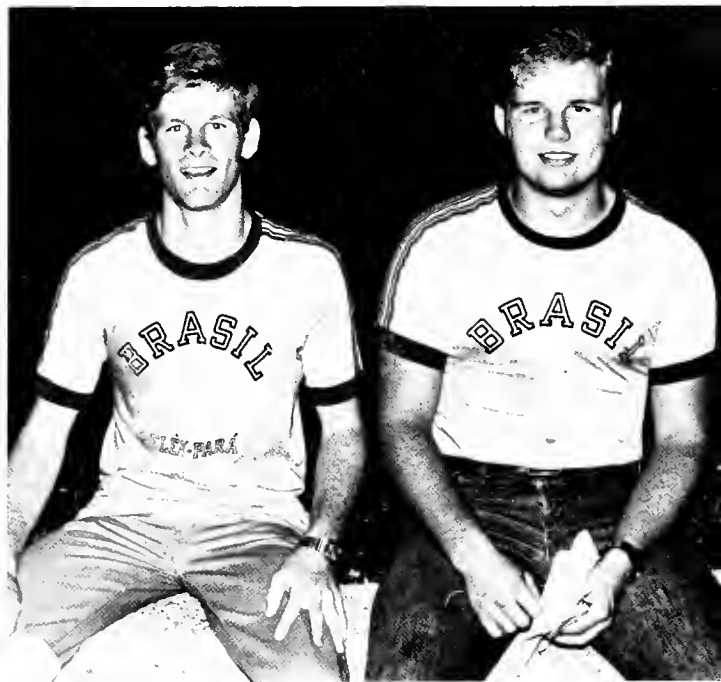

Forget the straw, baby, I'm hungry!

Freshmen to MBI

I hope there's no Swiss Steak here.

No, stupid, we don't speak Braille.

Now, what does he mean by that?

Freshman Class Officers

The Class of '83 converged upon the city of Chicago in August, representing a variety of backgrounds, personal experiences and expectations for the future. Though many came from foreign countries and were culturally diverse, a spirit of unity prevailed over this Freshman class.

"Our goal for this year was to help the class grow spiritually as well as socially," stated Freshman Class President, Lyle Reffey. This aim was accomplished by instituting monthly prayer meetings, class breakfasts and developing a prayer chain which enabled class members to share requests and diligently show concern for each other.

With their number nearly reaching the 500 mark, the class of 1983 strove to reach new goals and accomplishments here at M.B.I. Hopefully the next two years here will prove as fruitful as the first one.

A.S.P. Officers

The A.S.P. class is a living example of unity within diversity. The class is composed of a great mixture of abilities (Agronomists to Architects) from all across the country (Connecticut to California) and from around the world (India to Italy).

Goals for these students who have already received their bachelor's degrees elsewhere are as diverse as their backgrounds: they are going to be missionaries, ministers and airplane mechanics. And some of them are going to be totally confused if they do not figure out what they are going to do.

The diversity becomes unified, however, in their love of God and their desire to serve Him as He leads them. The fellowship within this group is special, as only a fellowship centered in Christ and unified by His love can be. Though they are only physically together for a year, the friendships made will last for many years as they go their own ways.

Consider This: How You Can Be Part of the Pacific Garden Mission Ministry

MUCH PRAYER, MUCH POWER,
SO . . .

1. Pray that, through the three Gospel services and the three Bible classes conducted daily, many men and women will profess faith in Christ and have a hunger for the Word.

2. Pray that our staff will compassionately minister to the spiritual needs of all who come to us and lead the converts to a life of victory over the sin that has ruled their lives so long.

3. Pray for the world-wide ministry of "UNSHACKLED!" — a unique Gospel broadcast featuring true stories of transformed lives. (440 stations in the U. S. and 35 in other countries air this program; write for a listing of the stations and then share this information with others.)

4. Pray that God will thrust forth laborers into the rescue mission field. As you do, He may lead you into this vital soul-winning ministry.

THEN . . .

1. Visit us to see firsthand what God is doing through Pacific Garden Mission. You are welcome any time, day or night! Write for a folder titled: "Visit PGM."

2. Write us for information on our films: MIRACLE ON STATE STREET, OUT OF THE NIGHT and THE STREET, plus our latest flimstrip, AROUND THE CLOCK. Or ask about a deputation team visiting your church.

The class of '82 with a great gratitude to all who have had a part in shaping our lives. We also continue on this path knowing that we too shape and form another as we head toward the goal. (Phil.
3:13)

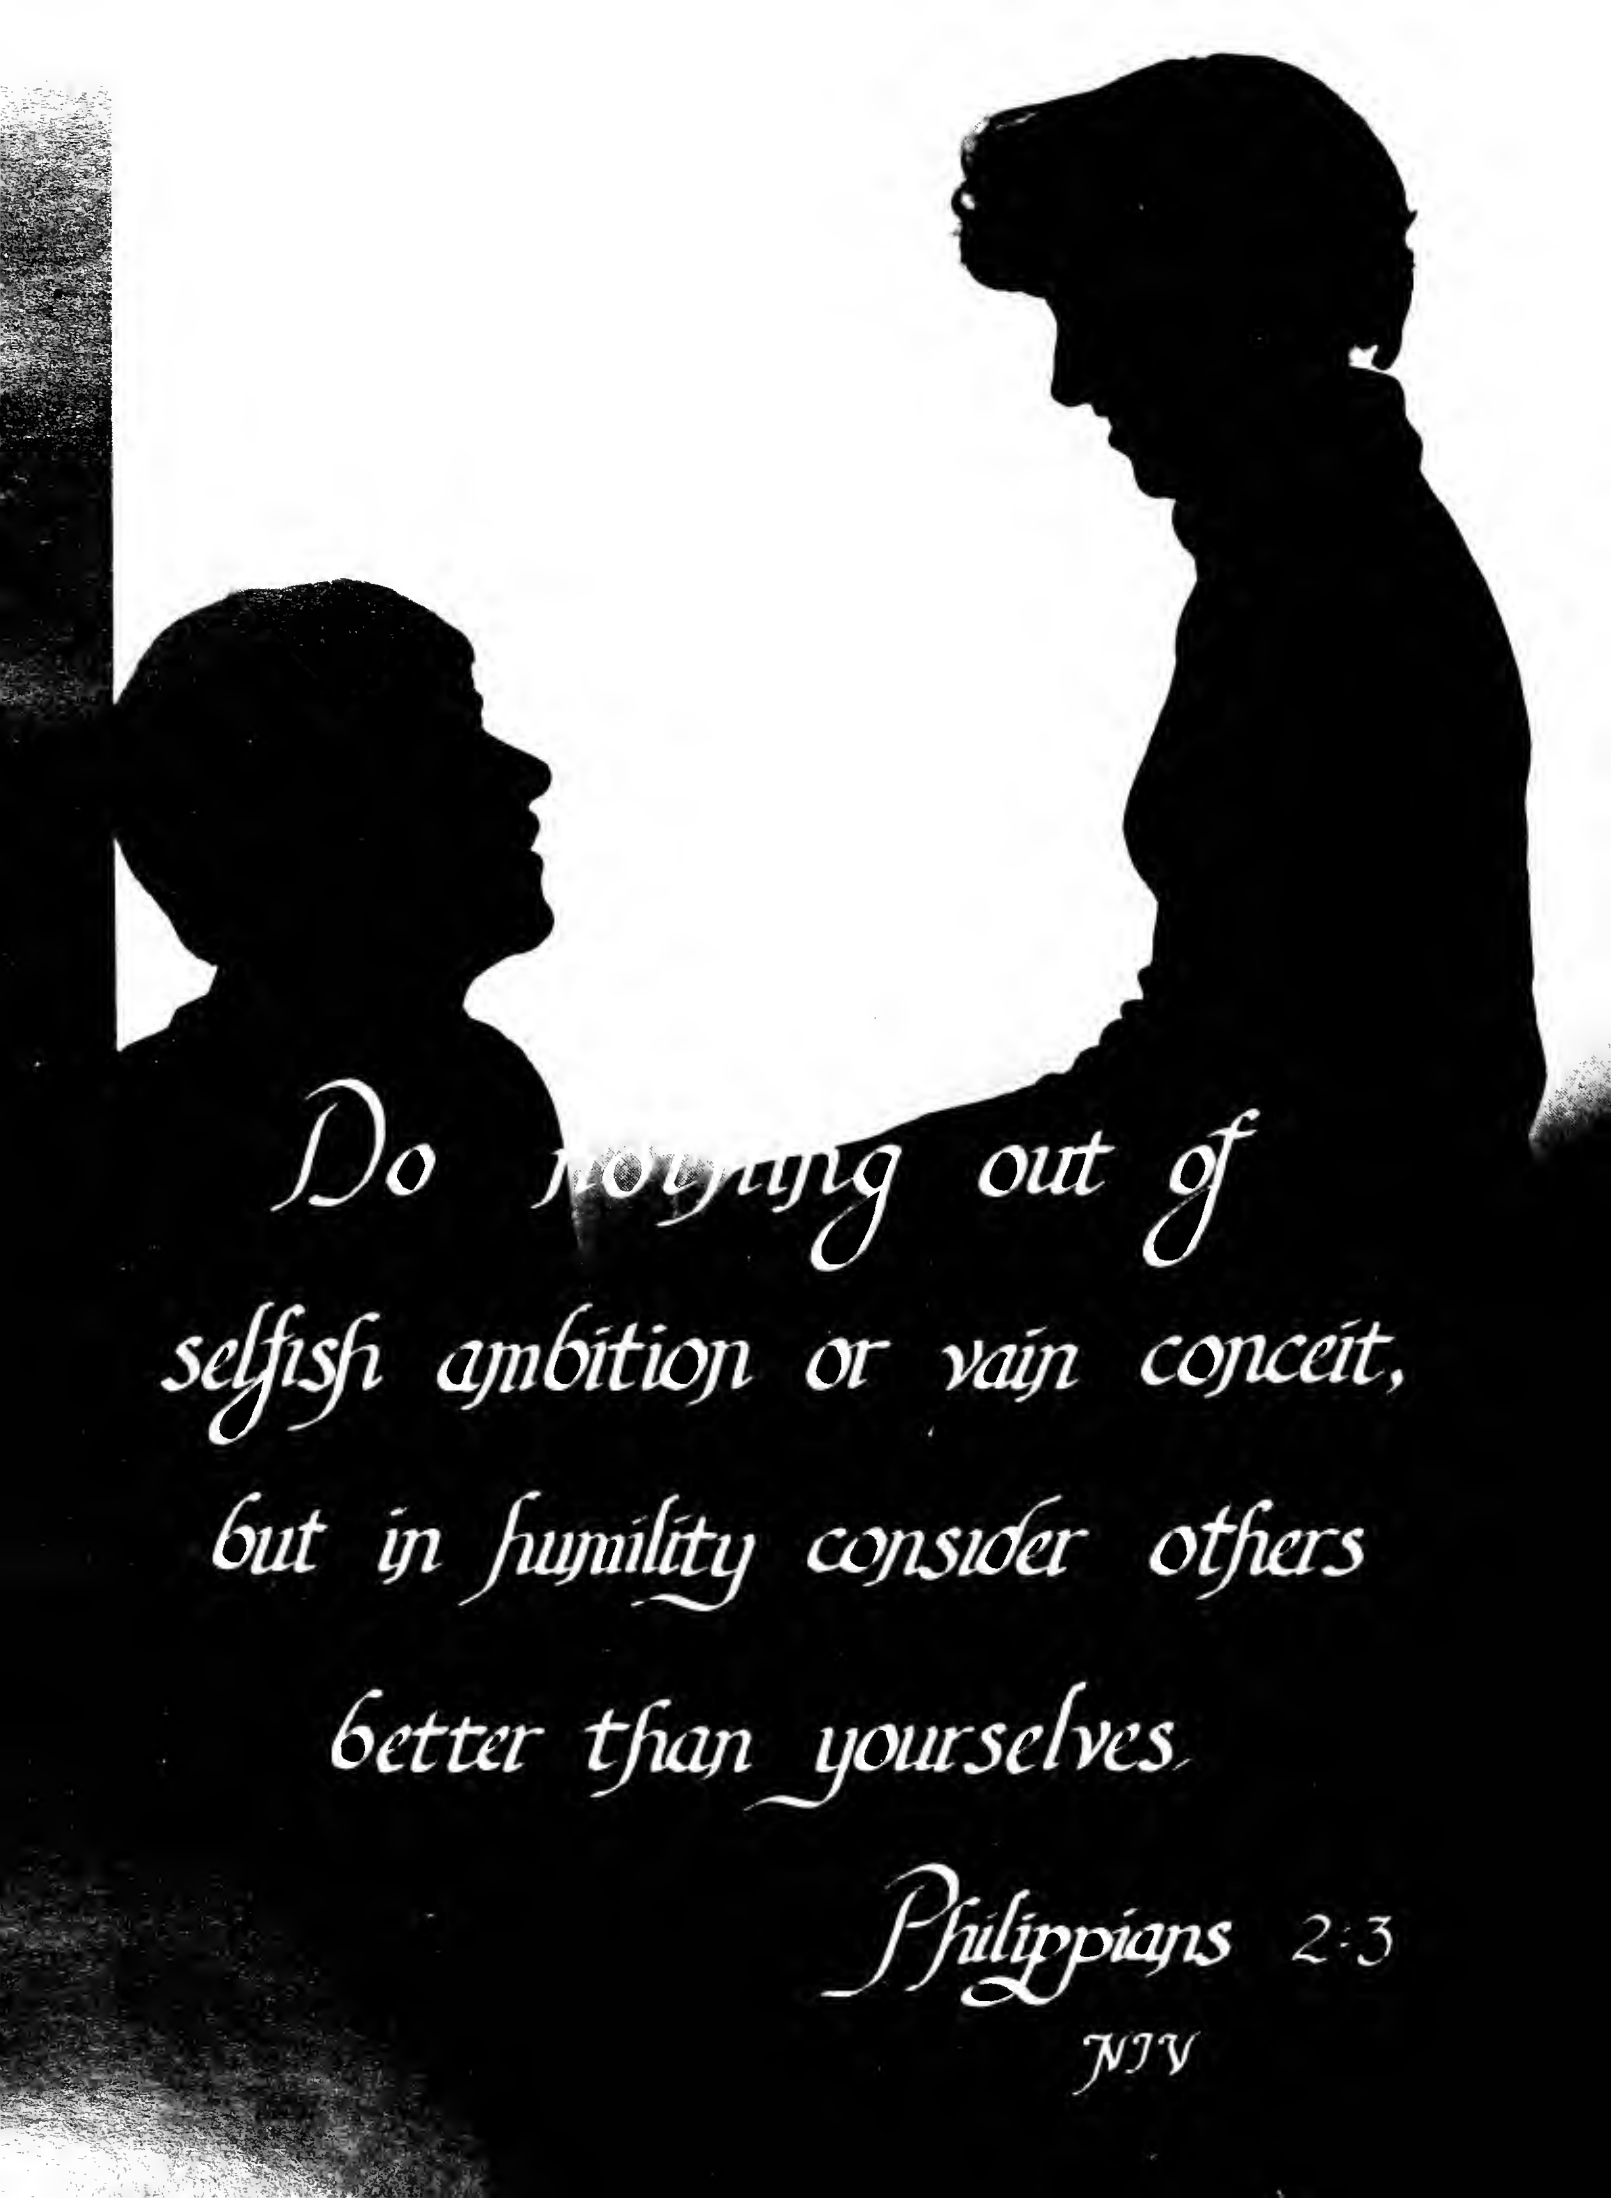

In memory of CARL WILLIAM SWANSON

He was only with us a short while, but for those who really knew him his life was a remarkable shining light in a world of hopelessness and self pity. He was tall and strong, bright and cheerful, handsome and humble. He had one very special goal in life; to become a missionary pilot. He still clung to this goal during the last few months of his life.

To some, cancer is a horrible disease. To others, it is an added opportunity to witness and minister, and a short cut to glory. Bill never complained. His one comment that dominated each conversation about his disease was, "I have the victory." He truly did have the victory. His doctors marveled at his ability to withstand pain and suffering. He never lost that young attractive smile or his concern for others.

Bill went to be with the Lord on December 23, 1981

A high-contrast black and white image featuring the silhouettes of two people in profile, facing each other as if in conversation. The person on the left is smaller, while the person on the right is taller. The background is a bright, textured white, creating a stark contrast with the dark figures. The text is overlaid on the lower half of the image, written in a cursive script.

Do nothing out of selfish ambition or vain conceit, but in humility consider others better than yourselves.

In his book AUTHENTIC CHRISTIANITY, Ray C. Stedman says the secret to the Christian life is "nothing coming from us; everything coming from God." This is the idea behind the theme of this year's yearbook. Paul also states this theme in 2 Corinthians 12:10. I hope you know this truth from experience and can say, "In the end is my beginning."

It has been a pleasure putting this book together. I hope you enjoy it as much as I already have. My two goals in preparing this yearbook have been to glorify God and to give you something which will bring back memories of your 1980-81 year at Moody. I trust and pray that the book meets these goals.

I have had a great year as editor. I have learned and grown through the experience and will never be the same because of it. I would like to express my deep appreciation to each one on the staff, to Miss James, and to Bob Moorhead, the company representative. I have had their support and cooperation from the beginning and owe much to each one.

Enjoy the book and may we each find a new beginning in the end.
